

LET HIM DOWN EASY

Ryan, the Bogus Catholic Priest Sentenced to

JACKSON FOR 18 MONTHS

Louis Remington Pleaded Guilty But Hoagland Clung to His Former Plea. Sentence Day in Court.

Judge Burlingame's heart was softened yesterday for some reason or other and the sentences given by him to criminals were light. The first person to come up for sentence was George Hoadwell, who was convicted of stealing a saw from a building. He got ten days in the county jail.

Patrick J. Ryan, the ex-Catholic priest who worked several forged checks on several merchants in this and other cities, received a sentence of eighteen months at Jackson prison. He was agreeably surprised as he thought three years would be about the extent of the sentence.

John Brandt and Spike Vesterbrook, convicted of larceny of less than $25 from the person of a friend whom they got intoxicated, will report during the one year which they will serve in the state prison, and Thomas Allen, convicted of larceny from a dwelling, will be in the county jail for three months. He will spend Christmas outside of the walls.

Remington Pleaded Guilty. The case against Ed Hoagland and Louis Remington, in which they were arraigned together on a charge of larceny, was not probed on motion of the prosecuting attorney, and they will be arraigned separately. Remington withdrew his former plea and pleaded guilty. Hoagland, however, stuck to his plea of not guilty and a jury was drawn, and the case is now on trial.

J. M. Wolcott, the proprietor of the store which the boys burglarized, was the first witness. He identified the bottles in which the liquor was found as coming from his store, and also described the brands of cigars stolen from the store.

Louis Remington was the next witness called, and his testimony was very damaging. He described the manner in which they had broken into the store and where they went before landing in the Arnold residence, and their actions after getting there. Lawyer Hyde tried hard to mix him up on the cross examination, but without success. He stuck to his story from start to finish. The trial will be resumed at 10 o'clock today.

APPEALED FROM HYDORN.

Two Judgments Against the Street Railway Company Carried Up.

The Consolidated Street Railway company has taken an appeal from a judgment for $50 rendered against it in favor of J. F. Bryant by ex-Judge Hydorn. The suit was one to recover damages for uncivil and disrespectful treatment by a street car conductor on June 12 while coming from Reed's lake on one of the company's cars. The conductor demanded Bryant's fare, which he claimed to have paid. Bryant refused to pay his fare again, the conductor laid violent hands on him, and in a loud voice threatened to eject him if he did not pay his fare. The bond on appeal was filed with the clerk of the circuit court yesterday. A similar suit was begun by Allen K. Tyson, who was also given a judgment for $50. The company has filed notice of appeal to the circuit court in this case.

Will File an Appeal.

Ex-Judge Hydorn filed yesterday the bond on appeal with the clerk of the circuit court in the case of Samuel L. Crockett et al. vs. Charles A. Birge et al. The suit was brought to collect a debt of $300, but a judgment was rendered for $30 and costs in favor of the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs take the appeal.

Police Court Notes.

Leo Modjeskie, one of the boys convicted of stealing iron from Junk Dealer Brandy, was sentenced to the reform school by Judge Hagerty until he is 17 years old. He is now 12 years of age.

The examination of Harry Reid and Ed Duke on a charge of stealing a gold watch from a residence on Front street was adjourned until September 23.

A Volcanic Legend.

Chimborazo, the "pride of the Andes," at one time thought to be the highest mountain peak in the world, is now reckoned as being only 21,424 feet above sea level, which is certainly enough to give it an air of majesty if not of mystery.

But the natives of that region have a curious belief—a legend which tells them that "Chimbo" was once a full mile higher than he is at the present time. When Pizarro invaded the "land of the Incas" Chimborazo reared his majestic head between 25,000 and 30,000 feet into the rarified atmosphere, but that invader's cruel piece of infamy, the strangling of the last of the Incas, brought down the wrath of the gods, who rent the giant peak from center to circumference, throwing down great masses of stones and reducing its height by about one-fifth.

At the same time the apex of the mountain, the former resting place of the "Inca's Head," was cursed, and until this day no man has ever reached within 3,000 feet of its summit. "The Inca's Head" is a massive piece of granite lying on one side of the peak. Tradition says it once formed the apex—St. Louis Republic.

WHAT SHALL BABY EAT?

Question Answered by Howard Reilly's Aunt.

Infants Die on Account of the Ignorance of Parents.

The Beautiful, Healthy Boy Happy as a Summer's Day.

What shall the baby eat?

Mr. T. H. Reilly, editor of the New England Associated Press, has a beautiful child, Master Howard, whose aunt has written the following interesting letter from Astor Park, N. J., which truly answers the question:

Baby Howard Reilly, now morning, noon and night for ten months. Every one pronounced him the most troublesome, crying young one ever born.

Poor little fellow, how he suffered from the day he saw the light of earth until 10 months old! No one could tell why he cried and seemed in such distress. Several doctors examined him, and every remedy was resorted to. His bowels never moved naturally. He could not describe the distress he and every one around him endured. His mother finally weaned him; still the same trouble.

At last his tired, discouraged mother happened to read in a Boston paper an account of lactated food, and with no faith, but eager to grasp at any hope, commenced using this food. She had previously nursed him for six months, had tried cods milk, barley water and every blessed food ever heard of, but only with increasing convulsions. Strange but true, in three days Howard began to improve. He actually began to cry and coo, and in a week there was a marvelous change for the better.

He has now been taking lactated food for four months. He never cries, sleeps well in the day time and all night, something he never did before. The child had evidently been suffering from improper food and imperfect digestion.

I wish every mother could see this beautiful, healthy, rosy boy, happy as a summer day.

His mother happened to read the experience of some mother, who was grateful enough for the food to tell about it in the papers, and every woman who has had her baby helped in any way should tell the world at large have the benefit of her experience.

The hot weather is at hand. Think of the infants who will die from sheer ignorance of the blessing they know nothing about. Think of the number of children dying every month for want of proper nourishment which lactated food will supply.

I don't want anyone to read this and imagine it is an advertisement. I am writing it on my own free will and for the public benefit, not for the benefit of the manufacturers of the lactated food. Let every mother who has seen the food it has done her baby write her experience. When you know a good thing for babies, don't keep it to yourself.

I thank the manufacturers of lactated food and bless them for giving us peace in the family.

I understand they have made arrangements this summer to give to the poor sick children in large cities, those who live in hot, crowded tenements. This will not only relieve the children, but their poor, tired mothers.

Gratefully yours, HOWARD REILLY'S AUNT.
